ASUNCION

The 2026 World Triathlon Cup Asunción is the first World Triathlon elite race ever staged at this venue, and Paraguay's first World Cup. It runs on La Isla del Delta in Nueva Asunción, across the Héroes del Chaco bridge from the capital. Two things make it unusual on the 2026 calendar. First, it is a STANDARD-distance World Cup (1500 m / 40 km / 10 km). Second, the course is flat in all three disciplines, on a closed avenue with long straights and few turns, suggesting an opportunity for a large intact bike pack and a run-off finish.

COURSE FEATURES

- STANDARD distance (1500 m / 40 km / 10 km).
- Flat across all three legs: 2 × 750 m lagoon swim, 6 × 6.66 km closed-avenue bike, 4 × 2.35 km + 600 m run.
- Unclear wetsuit determination: 18–22 °C forecast.
- August is Paraguayan winter. Cool morning starts (Women 07:30, Men 10:30), Cold-weather warm-up kit likely more important than cooling kit.

Loops

Tactical Implications

- 6 × 6.66 km laps = 39.96 km on a closed main avenue through the Delta development
- Flat throughout, with a long out-and-back shape with the Zona Operativa (transition) mid-course; few technical features beyond the end turnarounds.
- Open floodplain with minimal tree cover: Maybe some potential for crosswind exposure

Tactical Notes

- Long straight out-and-back shape along the avenue. Very few turns.
- August is winter here: both races run in the cool morning and finish by ~12:20, well before the daily maximum. Heat is not the limiter here
